To Celebrate the Raising of the Sky Line in Glendale

INVITATIONS are being issued to a stag supper to be given in the near future in the banquet hall of the chamber of commerce by the Baker Iron Works company to the heads of the various men's organizations of the city.

THIS company has secured the contract for the steel work in the new Security Bank building at the corner of Brand and Broadway, and the dinner will be a celebration of the erection of the first six-story building in Glendale. This marks the passing of Glendale into the path of the bigger buildings, the development of the larger city.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY gallons of claret were captured at 12:30 this morning by Patrolmen Nunn and Baugh, when they arrested Bob Comprehens of North Main street and Pete Seme of 604 Seena street, Los Angeles, at San Fernando road and Brand boulevard. Thus Glendale, by her patrolmen, makes unsafe the way of the bootlegger. There is no "greased road" in Glendale.

LETTER addressed to the Los Angeles city council is going out today from the Glendale chamber of commerce, urging that body not to delay the granting of the franchise requested some time ago for freight yards and transfers where the Glendale-Montrose railroad will tap the yellow car line in the proposed extension. This should be granted at once. There is no opposition, excepting the knots in the red tape.

FRESHMAN TEAM ORGANIZED AT HIGH SCHOOL

A new freshmen baseball team was recently organized at Glendale High for a schedule of five games in the Central League. The lineup as given by Coach Wolfe is: Potts, catcher; Sherman and Elsner, pitchers; Richards, 1st base; Thompson, 2d base; Swanson, 3d base; Woolley, shortstop; Hank, left field; Taylor, right field; Seales, center field.

Its first league game was set for last week, Tuesday, with Citrus Union, which failed to show up with a team and so forfeited the game. The next game is this (Tuesday) afternoon with Covina at Covina. Next week, Tuesday, it will play Monrovia at Monrovia, and the other two games will be played on the following Tuesdays with Alhambra and South Pasadena on Moysse field.

The other team will play its last game of the season on Friday afternoon with South Pasadena.

THE WEATHER

MUSIC CLUB PLANS NEW ACTIVITIES

Four Sections to Be Formed for Aiding Musical Growth in City

DUES ARE CHANGED
Teachers, Artists, Composers to Be Organized for Work

By CORINNE ORFF
Musical Glendale straight ahead seems to be the aim of the Glendale music club, which is planning the establishment of four additional sections or lines of endeavor that will greatly assist in the musical development of the city.

These four new sections were discussed at the special meeting of active members of the club, which was held yesterday afternoon at the music room of the high school and include the following: 1. A Teachers' Round table, where both private and public school teachers may come together to discuss their problems and keep in touch with the work of the junior and juvenile auxiliaries of the club. 2. An Artists' Registration Bureau, where all of the artist members could register, with full particulars regarding their training, experience, etc. 3. Creative and Composers' Section, which will be in charge of Mrs. Lillian Ballagh, founder of the Matinee Musical club of Los Angeles. Through this section it is hoped to bring out a number of the composers who are residing in Glendale and also to take up the study of other composers, their life and compositions. This section will be open to men and women and will probably meet in the evening. 4. A Permanent Scholarship Fund. The purpose of this fund is to aid worthy students in continuing their musical education. The establishment of these four sections, in addition to the junior and juvenile auxiliaries, will add greatly to the constructive work of the Glendale Music club, which has already done

BANDITS TO KILL PRISONERS IN THREE DAYS

Story of Capture by Chinese Outlaws Told by Robert Scripps

(Copyright, 1923 by United Press)
PEKIN, May 8.—Foreign prisoners of the Chinese bandits in Shantung will be killed after three days unless government troops cease firing, according to a message brought from the outlaws' camp by Miss Minnie MacFadden, one of the women released.

From Miss MacFadden and from others who were captured and later freed, Robert P. Scripps, American newspaper publisher, obtained the first description of what occurred after the hostages had been removed from the wrecked Pekin express and hustled away into the hills.

Miss MacFadden, companion to Miss Lucy A. Aldrich, sister-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., made her way back from the camp with great difficulty after being turned loose, wearing a Chinese woman's costume. Refugees reported they were not harmed by the bandits and that, although firing was heard, no bullets struck near where the prisoners were kept.

Scripps' dispatch follows:
By ROBERT P. SCRIPPS
(Written for the United Press)
(Copyright, 1923 by United Press)
PEKIN, May 8.—(11:30 a. m.)—"I was awakened by a crash, followed by a volley of bullets against the steel structure. The bandits smashed the windows with their pistols and crawled through into the staterooms and corridors. I rushed to Miss Aldrich's room and brought her to my cabin. Then the bandits entered, rifled our baggage and ordered us all from the train."
Miss Minnie MacFadden, companion to Miss Lucy Aldrich, gave this description of the attack by brigands on the Pekin express early Sunday morning. She was one of the prisoners carried away by the outlaws, but was later released to bring back word that all

Eleven hundred dollars in fines and the confiscation of an automobile was the "haul" made by Judge Lowe of Glendale this morning, when three "booze" offenders appeared before him for preliminary hearing. One of these fellows was fined $500 for transporting liquor, payment of which fine has been arranged, and the two were assessed $300 each for driving an automobile while intoxicated. Both of these fellows paid their fines.

One hundred and fifty gallons of claret was captured at 12:30 o'clock this morning when Officers Louis Nunn and Baugh arrested Bob Comprehens of North Main street, Los Angeles, the capture being effected at the corner of San Fernando and Brand. Another $300 fine was paid by H. Juiger of Los Angeles, who pleaded guilty to a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated.

SYNDICATE PURCHASES SOUTH EAST CORNER OF BRAND AND COLORADO

To Remodel Part of Property and Conclude Operations When Present Leases Expire by Building Additional Stories on Present Foundation

PRICE PAID FOR CORNER IS GIVEN AS $150,000

One of the Largest Individual Sales of Business Property Made Recently in Glendale, Takes Place on South Side of the City

The southeast corner of Brand boulevard and Colorado street, consisting of 150 feet on Brand and 116 feet on Colorado, has just been purchased by a syndicate of Glendale business men, comprising Roy L. Kent, Dr. E. H. Parker, A. L. Baird, Harry McBain, A. R. Eastman, Francis J. Henry, William G. Lauderdale and Dr. T. C. Young. The price paid for the corner is stated as $150,000. The escrow on this property has just been completed. The property was purchased from Mrs. Cress Smith of Windsor and Verdugo.

On the corner lot of this property there is a single-story building which is now occupied by the E. W. Cizek Auto Electric company. The 50 feet south of the corner is occupied by the Robinson Brothers Transfer company, while the south 50 feet has been leased by Dutton the Homefinder.

The plan of the new owners of this property is to remodel the two-story structure, formerly occupied by the storage company, at once and to bring it up to date. The other structures will be permitted to remain as they are until the present leases have expired, at which time the buildings will be changed to two or more stories in height.

This is one of the largest individual sales of business real estate ever made in Glendale and it should do much toward stimulating the sale of real estate on South Brand boulevard.

A. H. DAVIS FILES APPLICATION FOR CITY ATTORNEY

Wants Stenographer But No Deputy; Would Take $400 Monthly Pay

Application for the position of city attorney was made to the city council Monday night by A. H. Davis, 610-A East Broadway, whose letter of application read as follows:

"It has just been brought to my attention that you would fill the vacancy of city attorney tonight, made vacant by the resignation of Hartley Shaw a few weeks ago."

"I had not given this position the first thought until a friend of mine asked me why I did not make an application for the position. To tell the truth I am not particular about the position, as I know it means a lot of work for the incumbent."

"I am informed that the salary is $175 per month for the city attorney, $125 for the deputy and $110 for the stenographer."

"If I should consider the position at all I want to do the work myself, consequently I dispense with the deputy. I would want to hire a stenographer of my own liking."

"Hence, I shall make application for the position with the understanding that I am to attend to it myself without the assistance of a deputy and my own stenographer, pay her and take the position for $400 per month. I would then move my own library into the city attorney's office and make my permanent office there."

ELECTRIC LIGHTS FOR BASEBALL NOW

Lights are now being installed on the baseball grounds of the high school. When completed the practice games under the Glendale Community Service League schedule will begin. There will be four 1,000 Watt lights installed on each side of the field. The invitation is still open to any teams that wish to join the league.

A committee from the Song Leaders' Club, of which Mrs. W. A. Kulp is president, will meet at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the office of R. E. Tucker, local Community Service executive, to work out plans for the club meetings.

INDEPENDENT LUMBER CO. OFFICE ENTERED

MRS. Z. L. HESSE HEADS MISSION SOCIETIES

San Fernando Federation
Elects Officers at Meeting

Because of the heat of the day not as many delegates were present at the meeting of the federated missionary societies of the San Fernando valley, held Monday afternoon at the Glendale Presbyterian church, as usual.

It proved a highly interesting session however, the main address being made by Mrs. Kelley who, in association with her husband, was a missionary to lepers in the islands of the Pacific. They are now ministering to lepers in the United States which now has about 100,000 afflicted with this dread disease.

She told of the leper hospital at Carville, Louisiana, where about 1000 are now undergoing a treatment which is said to cure the scourge but which is a painful process covering about two years. The Catholics have established a chapel there, and funds are being raised to make an enlargement of the Protestant chapel there at a cost of $30,000.

The chief business of the session was the election of officers, Mrs. Z. L. Hesse being made president; Mrs. C. E. Robinson, vice president; Mrs. R. W. Mottern, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Flora King, corresponding secretary.

A very fine devotional exercise was led by Mr. S. E. Logie. The next meeting of the federation will be held in the fall.

MANAGER OF POOL PROTESTS AGAINST DISMISSAL

Declare He Was Let Out
Without Notice or Statement of Cause

Laurence R. James, formerly manager of the Patterson Avenue park swimming pool, appeared before the Glendale council last night, and demanded a reason why he was dismissed from the service of the city. He stated he had been "let out" without a moment's notice and that it was nothing but just that he should be given a hearing or at least told just why he was dismissed. He was instructed to make his complaint in writing to the board and that body would take such action as it deemed wise. Assistant City Attorney Morrow stated that the discharge of any employee of the city required the approval of the council. City Manager Reeves stated that Mr. James' dismissal had received the approval of the council at the last meeting.

MOSCOW, May 8.—A lengthy note reviewing the numerous British complaints against Soviet Russia and couched in such strong terms that it may bring the Russo-British relations to an issue, was handed to Maxim Litvinoff, assistant commissioner for foreign affairs, this afternoon by British representative Robert M. Hodgson. Anticipating a break in relations, the British mission several days ago warned all Britishers in Russia that in view of the delicate situation, they should be prepared to leave the country on short notice. captives would be killed within three days if the government troops did not cease firing.

T. H. Day, who was also captured and was sent out under a flag of truce with a message from the brigands to the soldiers, said he was accompanied by a Chinese bearing an ultimatum written in English and Chinese, warning that the captives would be slain unless firing was stopped.

The prisoners said they were not harmed by the bandits and that although they heard shooting the bullets were not falling near them. These refugees gave the first description of what occurred after they were carried away from the train and taken into the hills. They reported that the bandits numbered about 1500 and that they were well armed with machine guns and automatics. They told the captives that they did not want money, only hostages which would insure their pardon.

"After they had been taken from the train," Miss MacFadden said, "the prisoners were divided into five bands, which were ordered to march rapidly over the rough fields toward the mountains.

"Miss Aldrich was separated from us. I called to her a warning not to identify herself, for fear the highest ransom would be demanded if the brigands knew who she was.

"We were clad only in night clothes and we were barefooted. We were made to march over stony ground. One of the bandits was gallant, helping me on the stony hillside.

"We must have tramped miles, finally reaching an unsheltered camp. There an outlaw soldier provided blankets but we could not sleep. All the people in our group were huddled together because of the weather, which was cold.

"We were held there all during the night. Our only food was bean cakes. We heard firing in the surrounding hills in the morning, but the bullets did not come near us.

"We remained in the hills all day Sunday. A rainstorm came and then the weather turned colder.

"We marched much of Sunday night and camped in a valley. The rain became heavier. We could not sleep because there was no shelter.

"The firing ceased during the night but was resumed Monday at daylight. Then a Chinese bandit appeared, informing us that all the women were ordered released. He ordered me to tell the soldiers that all foreigners would be killed after three days unless the firing ceased.

"My back was lame as the result of falling from a donkey on Sunday but I started back for the railroad, accompanied by the conductor of the train, who continually took the wrong road, fearing capture.

"We reached a village of mud huts and stopped while we ate a bean cake. A Chinese woman loaned me trousers and coat, which I wore until reaching the railroad, where I obtained clothing from passengers on the train returning.

TINY GLENDALE ARTIST TO BE ATT.D. & L.

Adeline Woodbury to Appear with Pola Negri in "Bella Donna"

Little Adeline Woodbury, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Woodbury, of 1111 East Orange Grove avenue, who was formerly a juvenile singer and saxophone soloist with a Chicago vaudeville house and who has also appeared in various parts of the country, is to appear in Glendale tonight and Wednesday and Thursday nights at the T. D. & L. theatre, in a charming interpretative dance number.

Adeline Woodbury is a natural actress and has been before the public since the age of 2½ years, having started her career in singing and dancing at which she presided in leading theaters of Chicago.

She is also a mistress of the C. saxophone, which she learned to play in seven months, and plays with facility the baritone saxophone. She received a popular ovation when appearing at Grauman's Sunday concert in Los Angeles, recently, and the Glendale American Legion program last year.

Her dance will precede the presentation of Pola Negri in "Bella Donna," the foreign actress' first American-made picture, a Paramount production.

Carved with a dagger from black ebony and amber, a Mohammedan rosy of authentic origin and colorful history serves as an important ornament and prop in the setting of "Bella Donna."

The rosy is the property of Dudley Stuart Corlett, an Egyptologist who served as technical director during the filming of this Paramount picture. Captain Corlett spent 10 years in Egypt, and the rosy was secured by him while in the Mohammedan.

The Mohammedan rosy consists of 99 beads, each representing one of the 99 attributes of God. The hundredth attribute of God is known only to the Imam of Constantinople, official head of the church, and is represented in the rosy by a bead of different color and size.

The rosy worn by Pola Negri in "Bella Donna" consists of the usual number of beads but by a dagger from ebony, leaving them faceted like a diamond. The hundredth bead is a huge amber, one of beautiful color and finish.

In Onida Bergere's adaptation of Robert Hitchens' story, the rosy plays an important part. George Fitzmaurice directed this picture, and the cast includes Conway Tearle, Conrad Nagel, Lois Wilson, Claude King and Moley Harlam.

COMMERCIAL LAW CLASS TO OPEN

There are many times when a simple technicality in business matters will lead one to a lawyer for advice when a general knowledge of the rules of procedure would save both time and expense.

A class in commercial law will be organized this evening by the University of California Extension division in room 815 Junior Orpheum building.

Dr. W. M. Burke, deputy district attorney will conduct the work. It will be practical and valuable to all commercial activity.

Radio telephony, so prominent today but understood by so few, will be the subject in which Mr. Arthur Hill, radio transmission engineer of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company will conduct a class on Wednesday evening from seven till nine, room 219, 809 South Flower street. At the same time Mr. Frank Geritz will organize a class in Woodblock Printing in room 207 of the same address.

For information and registration, inquire at 815 South Hill street.

BOOTLEGGERS GETS HIS SAN FRANCISCO

(United Press).—"A war record is no excuse for returning home and selling liquor to young girls," declared Federal Judge Van Fleet to Sarfino Giomi, cafe owner, who was found guilty of selling liquor to minors. Three months in jail and a $300 fine or three more months, in lieu of the fine, was the sentence imposed. Giomi pleaded for leniency on the ground he had two years' service in the world war.

CONGREGATIONAL CONFERENCE OPENS

what I believe we have in mind when we talk about Christ in the lives of men of today. Somehow we are going to be able to reawaken this sense of wonder and mystery and search after the idealistic elements of our common life, and somehow men are going to feel the kinship of their own souls to the great pulsing soul of God. We do not know very much of the way of spirit to find the way of making Christ really ours. It is a step at a time."

Moderator Reid called for discussion and when none came he acknowledged he did not feel inclined to break the spell of the last speaker. He then announced the hymn

H. W. YARRICK

"Faith of Our Fathers," pointing out that it was written by a Catholic and that in spite of the quarrels of Catholics, Calvinists and Anglicans, and the hard names they had called each other, they have deeply felt beneath the soil and we can all sing the same song regardless of differing creeds."

Various announcements were made of interest to the conference and a nominating committee was named, headed by Dr. J. H. Lash.

At the vesper service over which Rev. C. M. Calderwood presided, there was an organ prelude by A. E. Angier, the sermon was preached by John Gardner of Riverside, on the place of the cross in the religion of Jesus Christ.

Dinner was served to more than 500 by women of the church, the tables being prettily decorated with flowers. For the young people there was a special dinner apart from the main dining room at which the young people's program for the coming year was discussed.

At the evening session Mayor Robinson gave a few words of greeting to make delegates feel at home and then sang a composition of his uncle's, greatly pleasing the audience. H. W. Yarrick spoke for the trustees of the hostess church and acting moderator, Frank C. Reid responded on behalf of delegates.

A beautiful solo, "My Soul is Athirst for God" (Gaul) was contributed by Howard E. Cavanaugh. The main feature of the evening was a very fine address by Amelia H. Reinhardt in which she amplified upon her talk of the afternoon to show the place Christ should have in modern education. She dwelt upon the responsibilities of teachers and parents in this regard and stressed the necessity for thorough-going religious training.

Today's session opened at 9 o'clock when conference reports and plans were submitted by Moderator Reid, the treasurer, the director of religious education and the superintendent and registrar. Committee reports limited to five minutes each were then given and followed by discussion.

This afternoon at 2:30 the four district associations that are uniting the conference are having separate business meetings in different Sunday school rooms. Worship will again be conducted by Raymond C. Brooks at 2:30 and at 2:45 the conference session will again be resumed, with a series of short, practical talks on themes of live interest.

The evening there will be an organ recital by A. E. Angier at 7:45; worship conducted by Prof. Brooks at 8 o'clock, followed by some special musical numbers, and then by two addresses. Rev. Frederick L. Fagley will speak on "Christ in Industry," and Rev. Oswald S. McCall on "Christ in International Relations."

The final session will be held Wednesday morning, beginning with a business meeting at 9 o'clock, at which officers will be elected. It will be followed by two addresses: "Christ in the Theology and Philosophy of Today" by Prof. Ralph T. Flewelling, of Los Angeles, and "Christ in the Church" by Rev. Oswald W. S. McCall, of Berkeley.

WOMAN BECOMES REINDEER QUEEN

(By Associated Press)

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, May 8.—When Miss Ruth Reat accepted a position as teacher of a school on the Upper Kuskokwim river, 300 miles west of the Alaska railroad, she found the job a lonesome one. To break the tedium she bought a pair of reindeer to draw her about the country. By the time she had mastered the animals she knew quite a bit about reindeer. Then she began making a collection, selecting only special types of fine animals. Today she is known as the "Reindeer Queen" and her big herd is thriving in the vicinity of Mount McKinley.

What began as a fad has become a big industry, and what became a valuable adjunct to the motion picture business. Last month the reindeer were made to play in a film made by the Alaska Moving Picture corporation, a local organization. Miss Reat consented to break into the movies in her natural role as sovereign of the herd.

If they don't die, they will be asked to permit an infected tick to bite them. All the men are volunteers.

KISSEL CAR TO BE REPRESENTED IN GLENDALE

Nelson & Burr Take Over Agency for Nationally Known Automobile

The Kissel automobile, one of the high class machines being manufactured today, is now being distributed in Glendale by the firm of Nelson & Burr, 308 East Colorado. Both of the men of this firm are "old-timers" in the automobile business. They are familiar with all makes of automobiles—that's why they selected the Kissel.

"The Kissel custom built is the finest car on the market today," said Mr. Nelson this morning. "In every way it surpasses anything in the way of an automobile we have ever seen. We believe we can prove this and all we are asking is the opportunity to do so."

The Kissel Motor company prides itself in being the first on the market with the various improvements that have been adopted by the different automobile manufacturers during the past few years. Here is a list of the "beats" registered by the Kissel:

First to perfect automatic control of oil in motor—insuring the correct amount and pressure of oil at any engine speed.

First to equip every moving chassis part with a graphited bronze bushing, which prevents the chassis rattles that develop so early in cars less finely built.

First to perfect a method of hand rolling full-crown individual fenders, instead of punching or stamping them out.

First to balance separately all reciprocating parts—crankshaft, clutch parts and connecting rods—in the same motor.

First to build own rear axle, and first to offer a full-floating rear axle in a popular-priced car.

First to merge all electric wires on one central control board, making possible the easy location of wire trouble.

First to place a full-width coach design body on an automobile chassis.

First to build a salon body with a corridor between the front seats.

First to introduce as standard equipment in America the one-man top—a European invention.

First to place on the market an all-year car—Kissel's idea that changed the habits of a nation by making winter driving popular.

First to introduce concealed lights to illuminate the instrument board at night.

First to substitute oil lubrication for grease cups in a medium-priced car.

First to bring out two and three-door touring bodies.

First to see the possibilities of the new universally used vacuum gasoline feed, for it was at the Kissel factory that this system was worked out by its inventor, Webb Jay.

And now—first to place on the market a real custom-built six selling at a popular price.

MCCARTNEY PARTY FINDS PLENTY FISH

H. E. McCartney of the Hayward & McCartney firm; Arthur J. Nelson, manager of Blake, Moffitt & Towne, of Los Angeles, and Charles A. Duer, in charge of the Arrowhead lake resort, experienced the joys of fishing last weekend, each member of the party catching the limit each day of the outing.

Mr. McCartney says that fishing is wonderful at Arrowhead, and that he enjoyed every minute of the trip. Incidentally, he has returned to his place of business with an ambitious coat of sunburn acquired while plying the fisherman's art. The party left for Lake Arrowhead Friday and returned Sunday night.

'WHERE PAVEMENT ENDS' IS FILM NOVELTY

Rex Ingram has scored again. We have never been able to write anything less than that about one of Mr. Ingram's productions and probably we never shall. This director seems satisfied with nothing less than perfection, not a mere technical perfection, but that super-perfection which means artistic realism, finesse and distinction—and all of these he has attained in his latest production for Metro, "Where the Pavement Ends," which was presented yesterday at the Glendale theatre.

"Where the Pavement Ends" is different from anything Mr. Ingram has ever done, but it bears that stamp of real genius which characterizes "The Four Horsemen," "The Prisoner of Zenda" and "Trifling Women." It is an extraordinary photoplay in every particular, in direction, acting, settings, story and photography.

It is a tale of love and hate in the life of the daughter of a South Sea missionary. What better setting for a tale of romance than the far away islands of the Southern Pacific. Here is romance in its essence. The very atmosphere breeds romance—the clean, white beaches leaping in the brilliant sun, the tall, waving palms against a glowing sunset, the soothing breezes of a moonlit night. And all this strange, exotic atmosphere of luxuriant nature and heart-filling romance is transferred to the screen with amazing reality.

Little wonder that Matilda dreamed of love, and little wonder that love came to her in so strange a way. But the path of love for her was not smooth. There was Gregson, the villainous trader, and enemy of the man she loved. He was the richest man on the island and her father wanted her to marry him. And Gregson wanted her. The conflict between the man who symbolized love and the man who represented passion brings the story to a thrilling and satisfying climax.

Beautiful Alice Terry portrays the part of the missionary's daughter with remarkable skill. Ramon Novarro plays opposite her with magnificent power and appeal. Edward Connelly, as the missionary, and Harry T. Morey as Gregson, display rare ability.

HOSIERY FIRM TO HAVE GLENDALE SALESMAN

Real Silk Mills of Indianapolis Will Show Goods at Homes Here

With 39 different colors from which to choose, and a firm representative to bring samples to the home, it is becoming an easy matter for the discriminating woman to choose hosiery that will match the shoe and gown.

This service is to be rendered to the people of Glendale through the manufacturers of real silk hosiery, whose local representative resides in Glendale. H. Robine, of 121 North Louise. This system of showing the hosiery at the homes eliminates to a great extent, the possibility of choosing the wrong shade, and the inconvenience of exchanging goods.

Real silk hose are sold at one price only, and are manufactured with the idea of giving a good appearance and of rendering the maximum amount of service to the wearer.

Orders taken in Glendale are shipped directly from the mills in Indianapolis, Ind., to the consumer, and a system of prompt delivery has been worked out, in order to give efficient service to their patrons.

Society LODGES CLUBS - CHURCHES.

JACKSONS MARK BIRTHDAY OF THEIR SON

Function Is Attended by Bride, Fiancee and Bridal Party

Postmaster and Mrs. D. Ripley Jackson were host and hostess at a beautiful dinner function held at their home, 1800 South Brand boulevard, last evening. It was a celebration of the birthday of their son, Kenneth Jackson, and an entertainment of his fiancée, Miss Ruth Waterman, and the attendants who will constitute the bridal party at the wedding which is set for June 28.

It might be called a rose dinner in shades of pink. Above the smartly appointed table were festooned from the chandelier pink ribbons which terminated in bouquets of roses, sweet peas and ferns, one at each plate. Scattered where on the cloth were scattered more roses.

The birthday cake, placed in front of Kenneth, was shielded by a pink silk cover studded with 20 candles and beneath it a very beautiful gold watch and chain was discovered by him, the gift of his father.

It was a six-course turkey dinner, the place cards carrying a design incorporating pink roses and birds of paradise. The ice cream served as dessert was moulded in the form of roses, cupid and hearts.

The dinner guests were: Miss Ruth Waterman and her mother, Mrs. Mary L. K. Waterman; Miss Grace Jackson, who will be maid of honor; the bridesmaids, viz., Misses Murray Longley, Louise Hollenbeck, Dorothy Chandler, Dorothy Vogel and Ethel Coddington; the matron of honor, Mrs. Nelson Van Wormer; the best man, Edwin Chandler; the ushers, Warren Meeker, William Farmer, George Fraley and Brigham Bennett; Mrs. Margaret F. Coddington and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson.

Later in the evening these guests were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Benton, Harold Alexander, Miss Mildred Cole, Miss Vivian Thomas, Jack Jackson, Adam Fangman, Colonel and Mrs. Fraser and Mrs. A. Chandler.

Dancing constituted the diversion of the evening and about 10:30 a tea wagon was wheeled into the living room piled high with a towel shaper for the bride to be, in her preparations for the affair. Mrs. Jackson was assisted by Mrs. Coddington.

GLENDALE CAT CLUB HOLDS REGULAR MEETING

Members of the Glendale Cat Club held their regular meeting last night at the home of Mrs. E. O. Holbrook, 426 West Harvard street. At the business session plans were discussed for a series of card parties to be given to raise money towards financing the annual cat show, which is to be staged the latter part of the year. For the card parties it is planned to award a Persian kitten as the first prize. Arrangements for a food sale to be held May 13 at Gregg's hardware store were also made.

MUSIC CLUB PLANS NEW ACTIVITIES

much to stimulate interest in music by bringing to Glendale artists of note.

An important feature of the business meeting yesterday was the amendment to the by-laws, whereby provision is made for patron memberships to the club at $10 per year, allowing the patron to be membership tickets. The by-laws as amended also eliminate the initiation fee for new members, making the dues $5 a year. Old members of the club, who have already paid an initiation fee will remain on at the present rate of dues, $4 a year. All dues, whether for patron, active or subscription membership will be due and payable on or before September 1. This is necessary on account of the fact that many of the prominent artists must be engaged several months ahead.

It is the desire of the officers of the Glendale Music club to secure 100 patron memberships in order to provide finances which will allow the taking of a lease on the auditorium of the Tuesday Afternoon club for the club concerts.

Plans were discussed for the concert to be given May 24 at the Tuesday Afternoon club auditorium for the benefit of Miss Hazel Link Vogel, who is leaving soon to continue her musical training in the east. The tickets will be 50 cents for students and 75 cents and $1 for adults. Offers of assistance have already been sent in from many organizations and an appeal is to be made to all the musical and civic clubs in the city to assist in making this a community affair.

HIGH TEACHERS TAKE VACATION AT RIFLE RANGE

Mr. and Mrs. George U. Moyses proved efficient and most satisfactory guides when they led a procession of automobiles containing members of the faculty of Glendale high Monday afternoon at 4:30 to the rifle range in Sylmar canyon, where the tables, stoves and benches vacated by the sailors who had been camping there were immediately available for picnic purposes.

While they do not talk much about what they did, all stories are in agreement on the wonderful time they enjoyed under the oaks in that beautiful spot. The supper, of which Miss Jennie Freeman and her associates in the English department had charge, appears to have loomed large in the events of the outing, consisting as it did of wienies, sandwiches, coffee, salads and ice cream.

Trustee H. V. Brown showed up in time to be of service if called upon, but though a number acknowledged they had reached the danger line, all were able to pull through without professional help.

Following the supper there were various diversions, an indoor baseball game, a peanut relay race in which the decisions of the referee were hotly disputed, and other contests. The majority remained until 8 p. m., but a few had to return earlier to meet their night school classes.

CITY AUXILIARY OF HOSPITAL FOR CHILDREN MEETS

Bacon, first vice president, and Mrs. A. Bancroft, treasurer.

The list of members present included Mrs. Ernest J. Morgan, Mrs. Robert Blackburn, Mrs. Brant and Mrs. Pendroy. A very generous donation of materials for the making of children's garments was contributed by Mrs. Pendroy.

The next meeting of the organization will be held in the Congregational church at the corner of Central and Wilson avenue.

CENTRAL P. T. A. TO END SEASON

BUNDLE DAY TO BE CELEBRATED IN GLENDALE

Collections for Near East Sufferers to Begin Early Today

Today is "bundle day," and brings a call to all of us to do our little part in aiding the homeless victims of the Turkish crime in the Near East. Like any day of giving, it brings a reward, as well as a call to duty. Nearly all of us can gather together bundles of good clothing, serviceable against cold and exposure, that we have cast aside because we do not need it. Nearly all of us can find useful resources to place at the service of these Near East sufferers—resources which we ourselves do not need. Most of us aren't aware that we have so much, until there comes a call such as this to examine our possessions, and we very often forget about our blessings in the process. After all, the possession of a lot of old clothes isn't so much.

Don't think that it isn't much. There are millions of people in the world today who don't know what "old clothes" means. Clothes—any kind of clothes—are a little fortune to untold thousands of those who live in the track of the late war. Where the war passed, leaving devastation, people who were living in comfortable, solid homes like ours were suddenly left homeless and without shelter. Their careless accumulations of necessities were burned, looted and lost. Today, years of poverty have taught them to value the little, insignificant comforts that we pass over so lightly.

The reward of an appeal like the present is to realize what bitter misfortunes we ourselves have been spared—how rich and lucky we actually are. But for an accident of birth, you might now be living in an overcrowded stockade in some Greek city, separated forever from your children and friends, clothed in rags, ill and hungry. Tragedies of which you cannot conceive are actually in progress over there. We are free, well-fed and happy.

Life should mean more to us today, by contrast with the conditions for which our help is asked. And because life does mean more to us, we ourselves ought to do more. It is not enough to bask in smug thankfulness over the sorrow and suffering that has not come to us. We have a chance now to help a little in the sorrow and suffering that has come to others.

Perhaps it's an effort to rummage around and fix up a bundle to send overseas. But we have so much, and the folks over there so pitifully little, that we surely ought to make the effort. Pack that bundle now. Put in last year's suits, coats, dresses, wraps, shirts, shoes, stockings and underwear. Send the bundle to the nearest school.

The "skeletons in your closets," clothing and shoes you will never wear again, will save lives next winter in the Near East. Desperately in need of your cast-off clothing are the 25,000 refugees, children, women and men, now quarantined and dying on ships and in barracks at Constantinople; upwards of 80,000 refugees in the Allpago district, thousands of whom are living in caves, without sufficient clothing to cover their bodies; hundreds of thousands of other refugees in Greece and on islands of the Aegean sea who are still wearing the identical clothes, now in shreds, which they wore when they were forced to leave their ancestral homes in Smyrna, Anatolia and Thrace. Babies are born without a square of muslin or clean cloth to cover them. They need clothing—and milk.

"Bundle days" are being held today in more than 100 Southern California cities. It is planned to gather not less than 125 tons of clothing supplies. A large shipment will leave California this month.

The Near East Relief regional bundle warehouse is at 172 South Main street, Los Angeles. Cash gifts with which to purchase food supplies for forwarding to the Near East may be sent to Near East Relief, 517 Wright & Callender Bldg., Los Angeles.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF BURBANK

CLUB WOMEN DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK—

CAST VOTES

Burbank Organization Names Officers for Two-Year Term

Burbank women were interested today in the club election. Because of the coming biennial convention at Los Angeles in 1924 greater interest than has ever been shown before is being evidenced on the part of the members. The honor is one that several women desire, and each candidate's friends are hoping for the election of their nominees.

The building of the clubhouse this year will be the greatest undertaking, and capable women who are desirous of securing the proper building have this project in mind when they have spoken of their desire for the position as head of the club.

A larger vote than has ever been polled in the history of the club is expected when the votes are counted this evening.

KIWANIS CLUB ENJOYS PICNIC

A large number of Kiwanians and their families went for an all-day picnic Sunday up to Mountain Crags. The picnic dinner was the chief feature of the day, but in addition to that pleasure, there was swimming and dancing.

VICTORY CLASS WILL MEET

The Victory class will have its regular monthly meeting this evening in the social hall of the Methodist church. A large attendance is expected.

Mrs. Jens Nielso, 502 Verdugo avenue, is entertaining Mrs. Mary Finks of Los Angeles and her mother-in-law, from Missouri, this week.

MAIL CHUTES IN OFFICE BUILDINGS

They are installed for the convenience of occupants, as are those found in apartment houses. The facility is not to be abused if the postoffice is expected to make collections in the buildings which possess these chutes. Therefore, the postal authorities make some suggestions in regard to them.

The chutes are intended for the receipt and deposit of mail matter of the first class, and it is not permissible to deposit other mail therein where the efficiency of the chute for the reception of first-class matter will be retarded or impaired. The misuse or abuse of mailing chutes results in congestion and snags, with delay to the matter for which they are designed.

The following are some of the don'ts that should be taken seriously: Don't deposit into the chutes folded letters or bulky matter. Don't insert letters of large size that can only be got into the aperture by pressure, for when pressure is removed elasticity will cause them to expand and press against the sides of the chute and stick.

Don't deposit envelopes with bulky enclosures where the envelopes have been freshly sealed and the flaps have not been sealed to stick fast. Such letters are liable to be forced open from the force of impact as they reach the box at the bottom.

Don't deposit large quantities of mail at a single time. A mail chute was not designed for that purpose. Give every one a chance.

Don't fail to notify the post office at once in case of stoppage of any kind.

TOKIO—The manufacture of artificial silk is steadily increasing in Japan, and foreign machinery is being imported with a view of improving the product. The output has increased from 250,000 pounds to 850,000 pounds annually.

PARIS, May 8.—The employees of the department stores of Paris are today making loud demands for more pay. They say the cost of living has advanced three-fold since 1919. Their main complaint is in the matter of food, and the government has intervened by trying to regulate the price of bread.

The department stores had a lesson not long ago when they advanced their prices for clothing. French women simply did not buy dresses when prices soared beyond their reach. The store proprietors began to lose money, and thus were compelled to scale down their prices.

But it is easier for the people to do with new clothes than with food, so the violent protests of today against the cost of sustenance are not surprising.

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.—A total of 250,000 World War Veterans are expected here for the fifth annual national convention of the American Legion, October 15-19, according to the local post officials. ## WOMEN SERVE HOT WAFFLES

Hot Waffles

Waffles went better than hot cakes this morning when the Methodist ladies gave a May morning waffle breakfast. Because of the extra crowd in Burbank to attend the exposition, the Methodist women served the breakfast, but in addition to feeding the strangers, nearly everybody else in town took advantage of the opportunity and got a "waffly" good breakfast, so the ladies fed a goodly portion of the town.

MEN PAY $25 FOR A FEW DRINKS

Seventy-five dollars was all that came into the Burbank treasury Monday via the alcoholic route. Police Officer Ackerly found three men who were drunk, at the Lovejoy garage, and he escorted them to the city jail.

Judge Crawford heard the case Monday afternoon. The men pleaded guilty and he fined them $25 each.

ISSUES ONE BUILDING PERMIT

One lone, little building permit started out the second week of May. The first Monday in the new month had only a $500 permit to stand at the head of the week. Elmer Dale, building inspector, issued one to H. L. Woodward, 210 North Angeleno avenue, for an addition to his home to cost $500.

HOW BIG IS NEW C. OF C. COOK OVEN?

Stove Must Extend Several Miles in All Directions

Rumor has it that the Burbank chamber of commerce has installed a cook stove underneath the San Fernando boulevard, so that the merchants can have fried eggs, bacon and coffee by merely stepping out on the sidewalk and putting out the food for a few minutes. This much time will be saved by them, as this will eliminate the necessity of their going home for any cooked foods.

MEMORIAL ERECTED TO GEORGE HAROLD POWELL

A bronze memorial tablet to the late George Harold Powell, president of the United States Department of Agriculture, and a former associate of his former associate in public service, was unveiled in the Administration Building of the department on April 25, in the presence of friends and admirers.

Presentations were made by Frank A. Horne of New York, who was associated with Mr. Powell during his wartime work for the United States Food Administration, and Secretary Wallace accepted the tablet for the department. Secretary Hoover paid tribute to the character and accomplishments of his former co-worker.

Mr. Powell, who died February 18, 1922, was a member of the scientific staff of the Bureau of Plant Industry from 1901 to 1910, and during that period he did important work in biological research, directing his efforts particularly to the solution of the complex problems involved in the handling, storage and distribution of perishable food.

From 1917 to 1919, he was chief of the bureau of food products of the Food Administration, where he did commendable work in conserving the country's resources during a time of great need.

For many years up to the time of his death he was general manager of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, and in this capacity he contributed greatly to the co-operative movement among American farmers in all parts of the country and in many branches.

When some people get busy it is always in connection with something that is none of their business.

What men want is not talent, it is purpose; in other words, not the power to achieve, but the will to labor. — Bulwer

Government and co-operation are, in all things, the laws of life. — Ruskin.

PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

At this writing the authorities of Los Angeles have under consideration a peculiar case. In its bearing upon professional ethics, and the limitation, if any, to be set to privilege of communication, it is not without interest. In brief it shows the following facts:

Some weeks ago there was the mysterious killing of a man named Remington. He was slain at night on his own premises. The police could not find the faintest clue. It transpired that the victim had been a bootlegger on a large scale. His death was ascribed to some quarrel growing out of this illegal business. Then a woman sought out a lawyer, and according to his own later statement, told him every detail of the crime. She had been a witness to it. She it had been who had induced the men who did the shooting, to be present as champions of her cause. Her claim is that she had been jilted by Remington after a prolonged association during all of which she had known him to be married. The men who were to force Remington to listen to her, she affirms, exceeded their orders in slaying him. Still, as she appears to admit, her conscience is not quite clear, and she would be glad to have it cleared if this may be done without personal inconvenience or making trouble for the assassins. But she does not desire to go to jail, insisting that bonds must be arranged in advance of her surrender.

The charge naturally to be laid against this woman would be that of murder, which is not a bailable offense. The effort to shield the actual perpetrators of the deed, does not argue either sound logic or a contrite spirit. The woman remains unidentified and her whereabouts unknown save to the lawyer, who declines to give her up in the absence of bail.

Here is an instance of a lawyer engaged in blocking the course of justice. Unless the woman is the victim of obsession, or a falsifier, she should be made to give her testimony and take her chances under the statutes. But the lawyer will not sanction such a course. A man not a lawyer would not dare to proclaim knowledge concerning a crime, and withhold the knowledge. In attempting to save an accused person from proper incision, he would find himself arraigned as accessory to any crime of which that accused person might be found guilty.

Perhaps it is all right that there should be a special code of ethics and morals for lawyers, but on the face of it, such exemption from rule is difficult to understand. If this lawyer were a layman he would be forced to tell all he knew. And why not?

THE MODERN PENITENTIARY

In a thoughtful article concerning the punishment of crime a writer says that at present "our penitentiaries and prisons are but expressions of a blind vengeance. Somebody has hurt us, and we want to hurt them."

It was at this point that the article fell below its own plane, and for a few lines ceased to indicate thoughtfulness. The accusation involves a great injustice. It is with regret the necessity for punishment is recognized. It is applied for the protection of society. It is with the hope that the criminals will be reformed, and often they are. The duty of sentencing the evil-doer is one that judges perform with reluctance. Juries in many instances lean so far to the side of mercy as to ignore the facts and the law. Pardon boards are free with the granting of paroles; often too free for the public security. Even when on trial the criminal is hedged about with so many safeguards, and permitted so to be the beneficiary of legal tricks that it is next to impossible to convict. The presumption of innocence favors alike the innocent and the knave.

It is necessary to restrain the criminal. The old rigorous methods have become obsolete. All forms of torture have been abandoned. The prisoner is not treated as hopelessly degraded, his ignominy emphasized by the customs of the prison. Even the typical uniform, the mark of his abasement, has in many places been abolished. Every rule of the prison is framed upon the hypothesis that the inmate is a human being, that he has in him the elements of useful manhood, and that his treatment shall be such as to encourage the good, and build up character. He is governed far more by appeal than by threat.

When the fact transpired that prisoners were grossly mistreated, flogged, and perhaps flogged to death, in Florida, that commonwealth stood disgraced. The whole country was incensed. There was instant purpose indicated to reform prison conditions. The women of New York even threatened a boycott on all Florida products in case the system should be permitted to continue.

It is impossible yet to regard the bandit who kills and robs, merely as an invalid, and with loving care to place him in some institution marked by gentle nursing. That extreme is as chimerical as the old plan was bad.

CIVIC BEAUTY

In the growth of cities, the error of losing sight of the usefulness of beauty is common. It is a duty of any expanding community, to enlarge with a view to the whole scheme of development. Health also must be considered. These are two of the elements, consideration of which results in parks, and in the harmonious grouping of structures.

However closely a system of zoning should be followed, the fact is plain that in the total absence of such system, the results will be ugly, economically unfortunate and artistically, an outrage. When there is a slightly area adapted to the erection of homes, its invasion by commercial concerns housed in shacks, excites indignation. Stores invade many neighborhoods in which they are not needed. This would not be so objectionable except that the store building often is of a character to bring down realty values in all the nearby region. Protests, however, are not on economic grounds solely. When a man has erected a home that is adapted to the comely surroundings in which he found the site, he feels a sense of injustice if an enterprising alien is permitted to put up a peanut stand across the way, or an oil station to crowd the boundary line of his property.

Because energetic citizens sometimes disregard the value of beauty, whole additions to cities, having started with the promise of being fine, representative of cultivated taste, degenerate until all attractiveness has vanished. That it is no part of wisdom to permit such eventuation seems plain enough.

The King, the God and the Dog

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Could this story have come from the west? No, for the west has not yet learned to think in such terms.

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

We are materialists, and a materialist would never go forth from the radiant center of earthly success and glory to seek the glory which does not in this world nor the one to come.

I lay no claim to the story; it is very old but it comes back to us just now from the pen of a western traveler who loves the orient, its mysticism and its faiths.

There was a king in India who had four splendid brothers and a queen whose beauty and charm are even today historic and undying.

There had been fierce wars, but they were over and the king had been crowned in the ancient capital near Delhi, the queen beside him and his brothers about him as a guard of honor.

At the height of earthly glory and success the six realize the hollowness of earthly things and, turning their backs on the world, they put aside their royalty and set out for the City of the Gods.

There were frightful deserts to cross, hunger, weariness and thirst to be endured and the journey too much. One by one the queen and the king's brothers died. Only the king is left and a dog that loves him and has followed at his heels, enduring all but without understanding of the ultimate goal or anything but the love in his faithful heart.

And finally, because of his endurance and his faith, the king came to the City of the Gods. He was worn and haggard and burnt with thirst and the faithful dog was at his heels.

Then the God came forth from his city to meet and honor the pilgrim. Pointing to a self-moving chariot the God bade the king to enter. But the king refused until he learns from the God that by and by the queen and the four brothers who died on the way shall attain and be permitted to enter the City of the Gods.

"Then," continued the king, "there is the dog who loves me and has suffered all to follow me. I will not enter without the dog."

"The dog is nothing," replied the God. "Put aside such earthbound thoughts and enter."

But the king, while the dog stood trembling, refused. Firmly he declared:

"The dog has loved me, has served me, has trusted me; with perfect faith he followed through the desert. His claim is based on all the love and justice in the universe. Heaven can not be heaven if it falls here."

But the God was immovable and the king turned sadly from the gates of the city and set his face again toward the desert.

Then suddenly all the air was filled with a glory that blinded the king. The trembling figure of the little dog was transfigured and appeared as the figure of the Lord of Justice.

"In this form I have followed you," said the God, "because you have not failed even a poor dog that looked to you, enter now into eternal joy."

Why have I written this? Because, as I said in the beginning, we live in a material age and it is well to see once in so often how beautiful are faith and love and unselfishness. And it is well to believe in a God somewhere who rewards them—and takes care of little trusting creatures.

On Capitalization

M. J. Brennan, Chicago: "Which is correct: I am going West; or, I am going west? Also, which is correct: We went there last Spring; or, We went there last spring?"

Answer: The word spring, as well as the other names of the seasons, should not be capitalized. The right word is west in the foregoing sentence. The names of the points of the compass should not be capitalized when they symbolize sections of the country; as, He is going into the South; He is going south.

Utmost vs. Bounden
Doving Slotkin, Brooklyn, N. Y.: "Are the black faced words used correctly in the following sentence: 'It is your utmost duty to attend this meeting?'"

Answer: Yes, but is not the word bounden preferable?

"Have Did"
Mrs. W. H. Walker, Cedar Manor, L. I.: "Which is right: I have did it; or, I have done it? Will you also discuss the word do?"

Answer: The correct expression is have done. Use done with have, has, had, or having, or as an adjective modifying a preceding noun; as, he has done; they have done; she had done; having done; the work done.

Yesterday's Error
Wrong: "Them" as well as "their" are the wrong words.

Right: "Them" as well as "their" is the wrong word.

Vocabulary

A lampoon is a pasquinade or a written satire aimed at the character of a person and designed to bring him into ridicule, personal and sarcastic publication. The verb is also lampoon. Pasquinade is pronounced pas-ku-in-ayd (a as in at; i as in habit; e as in prey).

Queries

L. Camilleri, New York: "I read today in a newspaper: 'The improvement of service on the elevated railroads is expected to greatly relieve the congested conditions, etc.' Is it correct? Is it not better to say, 'to relieve greatly the congested conditions?'"

Answer: The expression "To greatly relieve" is commonly called a split infinitive. Undoubtedly a survey of best usage would hand down a verdict in favor of not splitting infinitives, which would indict the locution "to greatly relieve." But there is much room for argument on both sides of the question. The split infinitive, so called, is often more euphonious and more natural than the alternative construction.

THE LISTENING POST

By JAMES W. FOLEY

We say a thing is hateful. Which is a doubtful term.

For hateful means, if it means anything, full of hate.

And if we do the hating, we are the beings who are full of hate. The hated thing may have no hate in it at all. So we have gotten the terms mixed up.

Whoever hates is full of hate.

For hate corrodes and flows and traverses every possible avenue of being.

It is not possible to hate just a little.

Hate is a violence to the whole spirit.

And it is always a lot. Never a little.

Hate is one of the things in the world most to be regretted and most to be feared.

And one of the things most destructive. For look to what a pass it has brought the sad old world.

For a thousand years or so hates have been growing up in war torn Europe.

And out of those hates finally came the world war.

The world war was not due so much to political or industrial rivalry.

It was due mostly to hatefulness.

Hatefulness brings two evils with it. Fear and bitterness of spirit.

The venomous serpent has both.

Out of hate grows death. Death to the body or to the spirit. Get it out of your spirit.

We restrain murderers or execute them. But it is not necessary to hate them. They are restrained or destroyed in order that their injustices may be checked and prevented.

Not do we hate poor little offenders whose very weaknesses are pitiable rather than hateful or hateable.

Out of hate grows death. Death to the body or to the spirit. Get it out of your spirit.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

The feat of flying from coast to coast was so tremendous that it seems to cause more wonderment the more it is contemplated.

Two brave aviators setting off on that long journey, not only without fear, but happy at the chance, present fine, heroic figures. Think of crossing the continent, over its mountains and seas, its vast unlighted plains; above the clouds, defying the possibility of storms!

At one time a portion of the mechanism stopped functioning properly. This was shortly after the start, and for an instant it looked like defeat. One of the fliers made repairs while the other guided the flight through space. That was no foolish "movie stunt." It was skill, courage, and devotion to duty.

In an early day, the day of the pioneer, the distance covered by this journey just completed in hours, could not have been traversed in less than many months. Even the trip from the Missouri to the Pacific was a journey of months, save as made by intrepid express riders.

Stages reduced the time. Railways reduced it much more, and have been increasing speed so that now by rail the trip is quick and safe. Yet the movement of the train is slow compared with that of the airplane. The train is likely to have attained its maximum, while the plane is just beginning to show what its ultimate speed may be. Doubtless the near future will see the time of the recent flight cut in half.

The achievement is of incalculable importance. Its bearing upon commerce and civil communication may be more vital than upon war.

George J. Gould, again reported very ill in France, is the eldest son of the late Jay Gould, once the most sinister and powerful figure in American finance. The son inherited a great fortune. His control of it did not show the skill that had belonged to the founder. Considering his resources, he remained an oddly minor factor.

The Gould money is one accumulation naturally coming to mind when the subject of great wealth is being discussed. It never has appeared to bring much happiness to anybody. Perhaps it was started wrong. While very young, Jay Gould was charged with having cut and sold a lot of timber belonging to a Pennsylvania estate, the owner at the time abroad. The owner happened home prematurely. This had the effect of letting the cat out, and almost of putting Gould in.

Gould showed enterprise on that occasion such as characterized his whole career.

Comment in this column concerning bolshevism, as has been explained, has not been due to any hope of changing conditions in Russia. The purpose has been to reach, and possibly awaken the mind and conscience of the American bolshevist. The following message bears somewhat on the situation:

"H. James: You could not believe anything but the worst of anybody or any people struggling for a better society. Such venom and hatred that (as) pours from your pen is a disgrace to journalism.—Kate Crane-Gartz."

Nothing could be clearer than that this country will have to enforce its own prohibition law without sympathy or assistance from abroad.

Perhaps the good friends overseas are fearful of getting into one of the foreign entanglements of which so much is said.

It is seldom that a man accidentally projected into public life seizes so many opportunities to make an ass of himself as have been grabbed eagerly by Herrick, once representative from Oklahoma. His latest escapade led to his arrest on the charge of molesting a young woman. It was quite in keeping with earlier ventures. Herrick has remained at Washington since the end of his term. Some friend ought at least to furnish him with carfare home, and start him on his way.

The ready sympathy of the human heart for the "under dog" is seen anew in the protest against prison conditions as these exist in Florida. A body of women in New York agreed to boycott Florida products until such time as there should be a change in the present cruel system. Perhaps their course is not logical, but it is based on sincerity, and they are using the only method they know to express their opinion.

The policy of letting prisoners out on contract results in a system of slavery, and ought not to be tolerated. No individual or group, fit to direct the prisoners, could be induced to bid for their services.

Nations of the world are uniting to fight the traffic in illicit drugs.

It must distress the La Follettes of the land to observe this country thus rushing into foreign entanglements.

There is being some fun poked at the questionnaire sent out by the war department to soldiers and men in training camps. This reaction doubtless is due to the fact that certain silly questionnaires have been circulated variously. The army queries seem sensible and timely. One, for example, asks what Emperor William, in saying that Americans would not fight because they were not unified, meant by the term "unified."

Who cares what Emperor William said? demands one commentator. "Nobody cares. This does not lessen the point or value of the question."

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

One of these days, if I have the courage, I'm going to hang a new motto in our home for the guidance of our friends when they come to call. It will read something like this:

"Conversation not permitted except on topics of general interest."

The reason why is that Charley Thomas has become a public menace. Some time ago he discovered that pictures can be taken by slipping a sensitized plate in a little black box and pressing a bulb. From that he went farther. He became an excellent taker of pictures in natural colors. Now he has whipped together a lecture, illustrated by his own views.

"I'll come down some time and give my lecture to you," he said. "Any time you want. We'll get the bunch together and have a good time."

That's all right, of course, but Charley does not talk of anything else, and by and by the chat about Charley's pictures sort of loses its thrill, so to speak. And another of our friends is a madman about gardening, a pursuit in which no other of the group has even the faintest glimmer of interest. A third will talk of nothing but the down-trodden Indian. Any one of these topics is good for a little while, but when any one of the proponents gets on his or her favorite subject conversation ceases. The rest of us are compelled to listen to a monologue.

It is perhaps true as Mrs. Pilgrim urges, that general conversation is bound to a degree. It is apt to consist largely of reflections upon our neighbors, the latest news of the movies, and intimate details of the bootlegging industry. Our friends who favor photography, chicken raising and Indians are informative and elevating. No doubt we might profit by their addresses.

But the one perfect way to kill a social evening is to permit a hobby-rider to go ariding.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

A mysterious disease which stunts black raspberry plants and dwarfs the berries is causing great losses among the growers of this fruit in the north-eastern part of the United States.

A joint commission of Japanese and Korean officials has just made a complete survey of the Yalu River between Korea and Manchuria and urged that it be confined to one channel before it again changes its course.

Bacteria are found even in the virgin soil of the polar regions.

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

By HENRY JAMES

Ex-Congressman Herrick of Oklahoma seems to have made a fool of himself again, which was quite unnecessary.

A correspondent reports peace in Turkey as hanging by a thread, surely an odd fashion of treating peace.

People are asking what will happen when Lenin dies. If there is a hell it is possible to make a reasonable guess.

A Michigan syndicalist who had been taking orders from Moscow is going to the penitentiary, where the naughty orders can't reach him.

Cuba is advancing, having progressed to the point of abolition of bull fighting.

to be ably argued, but that there is going to be vigorous campaign work done for it. The "fighting" tone of ex-Justice Clarke's speech is welcome. The league cause needs that kind of championship. It is gratifying to know that although Mr. Clarke lingered for some years within the cloistered shadows for the august supreme court he can be a fighter as well as a preacher. He will find work enough to keep him extremely busy in both capacities, and the league cause will benefit from that kind of leadership.

THE SURE CURE
[Higginsville, Mo., Jeffersonian]

If you want to cure a socialist leave him a fortune.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

LEAGUE SUPPORTERS WILL FIGHT

[Hartford Times]

When Woodrow Wilson returned from Paris the American people had a kindly feeling toward the league. The impulses of the great majority were in favor of such international co-operation. Division did not come until the battalion of death burst itself in resorting to any expedient that would make the American people distrust their president and dislike his plan.

The objective was purely and simply the winning of the presidential election of 1920. The means were wholly unworthy of men who call themselves statesmen or even servants of the people.

Hence it is interesting to know how ex-Justice Clarke proposes to combat the spirit which influenced the 1920 campaign and kept this nation out of the league. It is pleasant to note that ex-Justice Clarke put a "punch" into his speech. The league never has lacked for high minded and statesmanlike support, for men with the intellectuality to grasp and the ability to present its cause upon the lofty plane on which its ideals rest.

What the league cause has needed more than anything else, is somebody to campaign for it, for men who not

ART AND ECONOMY IN HOME BUILDING

Design Submitted by the National Builders' Bureau

There are dreams we dream in the days of youth,
That are wonderful dreams of joy,
For there comes no dream like the hopes that gleam
Through the heart and the mind of a boy.

But the dearest dream of the dreams we dream,
As the tangled paths we roam,
Is the dream that appears in the later years
When we dream our dream of a home.

THIS DISTINCTIVE LITTLE HOME PLAN

is one of the most popular of the late Italian designs. Simplicity of detail is reflected in its every line. The exterior wall construction is of stucco applied over wood or metal lath, tile, brick or composition plaster boards.

A peek at the interior will show compactness of room arrangements in which are included every conceivable modern labor and time saving device and convenience.

Surely a home so carefully planned, with both exterior and interior developed to give those who adopt it to build from the best looking and most convenient arrangement for money expended, will be given the consideration it deserves. We will be glad to tell you more about this charming home plan.

The above plans are furnished by Bentley Lumber Co., 460 West Los Feliz Road. The details and prices for the construction of any building which may appear on this page can be obtained free of charge by any one desiring the same from the

CLEAN-UP SALE

Sunset Grove

Having sold all except 5 lots in SUNSET GROVE, we are going to sell the balance at terms never before equalled for this class of property.

$50 Cash $20 Per Month

Beautiful high-class restricted property, between two main boulevards, Kenneth Road and Tenth St.; full sized lots, 50x156 to an alley; covered with beautiful fruit trees. This year's crop goes with the property, and is in itself a considerable item, as the crop is very heavy; about 18 trees to each lot.

We confidently predict that Sunset Grove lots will be worth from about $1500 to $2000 in a short time, and compared with the prices of other property, they are worth that now.

CAPITAL CITY IS FILLED WITH K. C. DELEGATES

Twenty-first Annual State Convention Is to Open
Wed. Morning

SACRAMENTO, May 8. — The Capital City is bustling with excitement and convention atmosphere, as hundreds of visiting knights of Columbus come into the city, to participate in the twenty-first annual state convention of the order, which opens here tomorrow morning. Each incoming train brings several knights, and automobile parties and river steamers are also suitable carriers, in bringing the delegations of K. of C. members and their friends to the convention.

D. Joseph Coyne of Los Angeles, state deputy of the Knights of Columbus of California, will formally open the twenty-first annual state convention this morning at 10 o'clock, following low mass in the Cathedral of the Blessed Sacrament at 9 a. m., Rev. J. J. Clifford, state chaplain of the order, being celebrant of the mass. The morning session will be given over to roll call, honoring of credentials, submitting of resolutions, committee reports, district deputies' reports and recommendations and other routine activities.

In the afternoon session, the various state and district officials will tender their detailed statements for the year; and heads of standing committees will also submit their reports. During the day the visiting ladies will be guests of the Sacramento ladies, at receptions and automobile tours.

Tomorrow night the convention ball is to take place, in Masonic temple. Governor Richardson and other state officials have been invited to attend the function.

This morning Archbishop Edward J. Hanna of San Francisco was the preacher, at the solemn high mass celebrated by Bishop P. J. Keane of Sacramento, in the Cathedral of the Blessed Sacrament, which was attended by all of the visiting knights.

Last evening an elaborate banquet was held for the visiting delegates. Past Grand Knight Ray T. Coughlin of Sacramento council, K. of C., presided, as toastmaster. Prominent officials of the order, and heads of the church spoke at the affair, including Past State Deputy Joseph Scott of Los Angeles, State Deputy D. Joseph Coyne of Los Angeles, Supreme Warden and Past State Deputy David F. Supple of San Francisco; Archbishop Edward J. Hanna of San Francisco; Bishop P. J. Keane of Sacramento, District deputy and

Foley's Friendly Fancies

THE LITTLE FAMILY

Five little youngsters romping home from school;
One great pudding bowl set out to cool;
Five little plates and spoons and mugs of milk set out;

Five luscious appetites and many a merry shout.
Five little napkins and five little chins,
Juicy jam on rosy cheeks and so the meal begins.
All the table roundabout the cries and laughter ring.

And is that not a splendid sight to set before a king?

Five little kings and queens around the table spread,
Freckled cheek and peeling nose and waving curly head.

Bare feet and pantaloons and little pinafores,
White bread with butter on and how the syrup pours.
Five busy little spoons all in the jam at once,
Five little waists and shirts all spotted down the fronts,
Five empty little chairs and plates and mugs, and then
Off like a flash when the school bell rings again.

Five little boys and girls romping back to school,
Back to desk and book and sum and lesson, state and rule.
Five little plates to wash and mugs and spoons to dry,
Five little appetites each day to satisfy.
Frocks to mend and curls to fix and trousers to make whole,
And heads to pat and hurts to heal and bless each little soul,
Five men and women soon, with all the years will bring,
And won't they be a splendid sight to set before a king?

PARENTS' NIGHT
SET FOR MAY 24
AT WILSON AVE.

Thursday evening, May 24, the annual "night school" or Parents' night, will be observed at Wilson Avenue Intermediate. This time there will be no drills or other demonstrations in the line of physical exercises on the athletic field, instead there will be a school assembly at 7 o'clock on the east lawn where there will be room for all the children and their parents. At that time the letters and other credits will be awarded and there will be a short program which will include orchestra and glee club numbers.

Following the assembly the regular class work will be put on in the various rooms.

CROP PEST IN
NURSERY STOCK

[By Associated Press]
SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, May 8. — Purchasers of nursery stock are being warned by A. A. Hinckley, state commissioner of agriculture, to examine shipments received through the mails or by express in order that new pests may not be introduced into the state.

Recent shipments from nurseries outside the state have brought with them, in the packing used to keep the shipments moist and in good condition, samples of both animal and vegetable pests, which are capable of working much harm, according to Mr. Hinckley.

Presence of several pests, including the sorrel, the bag worm and the quack grass, in recent shipments, has been discovered, according to H. P. Mathews, crop pests inspector of Cache county. Other county inspectors are being warned.

RUSSIANS STAGE GOLD RUSH IN STREET

Ufa Citizens Discover It in Cleanup of Filth of Highway

UFA, Russia, April (By Mail). — The township of Meass, out beyond the Ural mountains, is in a flurry of excitement, for which there are two reasons. Recently there was a gold deposit discovered beneath the streets during a cleanup campaign, and that in itself was sufficient to throw the community into an uproar. But to cap the climax Colonel Walter Bell, district supervisor of the American Relief Administration for the Ufa-Urals district, accepted the invitation of the Meass Voluntary Fire Department to become an honorary life member of that unique institution.

Meass is working the streets now in feverish anticipation of extracting therefrom enough gold to pay its taxes for the next ten centuries and between this and the A. R. A. the natives of the town have conversation aplenty.

The occasion for the unusual honor bestowed on Colonel Bell was outlined in a most unusual letter addressed to the latter by the fire chief of Meass. It is given, unabridged, in part:

"The firemen of the Meass Voluntary Fire Department," it read, "when saving with self denial the perishing property of citizens and preventing property damage have not been sure that there would be given immediate help in case of injury or mutilation."

"We, thanks to your generous offering of medical materials for emergency uses by the firemen personnel, are sure our duties will be carried on with a great deal more ardor and with no thoughts of our self danger. From the voluntary Brigade we beg you, Colonel Bell, and in your person the American Relief Administration of the Ufa district, to receive our sincere thanks for such a generous help so greatly needed by the Fire Department personnel."

The proposal to make Colonel Bell an honorary member of the department followed with many salutations. The letter was accompanied by an elaborate certificate, "duly certified to," officially acknowledged by the undersigned, and by the official seal "given to Colonel Bell by the unanimous decision" of the direction of fire control.
